Fred Shapiro utilizes his 30 years of experience as an attorney, accountant, educator, inmate and undercover operative to powerfully convey the catastrophic personal and professional consequences of committing a white-collar crime.

This once well-respected member of the legal, financial, accounting and business communities, committed the largest bank and title fraud in the history of the City of Philadelphia. After spending over twenty-four months in Federal prison, Fred Shapiro finally changed his life by doing what he loves: Teaching everyone how to stay off that slippery slope, and stop fraud before it happens.

Plus....White-Collar Crime Jeopardy

Character, Crimes & Consequences

An interactive, informative & powerful ethics presentation. Fred Shapiro's unique background and experiences help everyone to feel and understand the catastrophic personal and professional consequences of committing a crime.
